Mountain Kids Day Camp

Sharing Faith, Showing Love, Having Fun

The ISAIAH FOUNDATION

~God is Salvation~

What is Mountain Kids Day Camp?

A week-long day camp for Idaho City community kids, ages 6-11. It is held the last week of June each year at Camp Ivydale, near Idaho City.

The purpose is to engage kids in activities which build self-esteem, encourage team work, provide opportunities for enrichment and positive role models. As a faith-based camp, children are engaged in learning about God through Bible stories, skits, prayer, and singing.

Children spend their day in age appropriate activities such as crafts, swimming, hiking, wood working, archery, ceramics, art, and many other creative fun activities.

What is unique about Mountain Kids Day Camp?

- Mountain Kids Day Camp is free to all participants, and is open to kids of all religions.
- The high camper to counselor ratio means that for every one or two campers, there is a counselor trained to provide each child with individual attention and lots of loving support. As a result, campers are lavished with love for a week.
- Most of the counselors are teens; many were previously campers themselves.
- All staff are volunteers
- Camp has unified the community around the kids
- Last June we had 75 campers and over 90 volunteers

What is The Isaiah Foundation?

The Isaiah Foundation is a 501(c)3 organization which runs Mountain Kids Day Camp for one week each June. MKDC is a faith-based camp provided for Idaho City area kids to experience typical camp activities at no charge. Run completely by volunteers, our goal is for the campers to experience God's love in a very real way, and to have lots of fun in the process!
